You think Donald keeps with the music better The music told Donald to skip, and Mary to fly, didnt it Emmas hands and arms were much more like birds wings than Marys were, I think. 600 84 to0 Yes, Edward, you may try it. Oh, what a pretty bow Edward made just before he began to dance! He must have thought he was a fairy that came to dance for us. (Through such discussion several details will be brought out. The children with less initiative will have received suggestions and courage to try again. ) LESSON II Perhaps you have been to a concert sometime with your papas and mammas. This morning we are going to have a concert right here in our own little kindergarten. A lady will play a violin solo for us. We cannot see her, but she loved little boys and girls like you, and loved to play for little people, so we must be just as still and polite while the music plays as if she were really here. Serenade--64281 or 64576 (It is better to play only first part, unless the children are able really to listen to the entire selection. ) Teddy Bears Picnic--16001 The next music we are going to hear has something in it that you would like to have for a toy. You like a train A dolly, etc. (Allow childrens discussion to anticipate what toy this one may be. ) See if you can tell what...
